FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 21, 1859. LARGEST DAILY, TRI-WEEKLY, AND WEEKLY CIRCULATION, OF ANY PAPER IN WHEELING.

THE HARPER'S FERRY RIOT

The investigations which have been, and are being made, into the secret history of the recent terrible and remarkable outbreak, will, we hope and believe, be productive of good influences upon the popular mind in both sections of the Union. It has two lessons, which, it seems to us, that it may very appropriately teach. The first of these is, the lesson which it will convey to the North, teaching them to look even with more than their wide spread aversion upon the principles and teachings of those visionary fanatics among them, who, like Garrison & Co., claim that the Constitution of our country "is a covenant with hell," and that the duty of slaves is to rise in the night time and free themselves from thraldom by cutting the throats of their masters, and helping themselves to the property accumulated by their unrequited toil. It will, we say, teach the Northern people, when these fanatical abolitionists go about through their cities and towns, holding their periodical Saturnalia, to look upon their principles in the proper light, and will inspire in their minds more of a deep-seated hostility to their wicked and disorganizing ravings. In this way the results of these investigations will affect the Northern mind for good.

On the South it ought likewise to make a deep impression. Here, in this Harper's Ferry riot, we have an illustration which both precept and example have before told us, is altogether a possible contingency in a country in whose midst there exists a large and degraded class of humanity. We cannot take fire in our bosoms and not be burned, the Scripture and our ownexperience have taught us. Neither can we have in our midst four millions of serfs, whose color, whose intellect, whose habits, whose everything is different from the ruling element, without liabilities to the same dangers that have always attended society in every country where such a large servile element has existed. San Domingo has taught this lesson to the world. Southampton has taught it to the people of this country and this State. Scarcely more insecure are those people who work by day and sleep by night underneath the craters of Vesuvius and Ætna, and who are liable to an irruption at any moment of burning lava, than many communities in our Southern States where the slaves number two or three to one of the whites. These slaves, by their constant and rapid illegitimate intermingling with the whites, as well as by the very condition of contact between superior and inferior races, are becoming in each generation more intelligent, and consequently more the objects of dread. They are sloughing off gradually that torpor and obtuseness of mind seemingly natural to them, even faster than they are shedding their original dark hue. Slowly, but certainly, they are acquiring more of the characteristics of the white races and losing those of the African Look at the brightened complexion of the race in all our Southern cities and towns. In Charles, ton, S. C., for instance, the mixed element im measurably predominates over that of the black, and is, we believe, equal to if not greater than the white population. Look at many other of the South Carolina communities Richmond, Lynchburg, Petersburg, Norfolk and other places in our State. We ought to look these things all in the face now. They have an important practical bearing on our social condition. When we hear men and papers either openly advocating or covertly winking at a revival of the odious slave trade, it is time that public attention was called to these things. It is useless to rail at wicked and reckless Abolitionists, like Brown, who in their blind fanaticism think-if they think or care at allthat they are doing God-service when they teach and aid slaves to rise against their masters. There will always be such men. They are to be expected when we think of the vast amount of opinion, religious and non-religious, which exists throughout a great country like ours on the moral and political aspects of a National question like that of Slavery. Likewise is it all useless and idle to expect that men having minds to think-minds which must think-and tongues which are free to speak, will ever stop having opinions or expressing them upon either the justice or the expediency of slavery in the abstract. Our security lies in advancing, not in retreating. We must look to the future of the two races. We must go back and read up the opinions of the fathers of the Republic as to the probable issue of slavery in this country. We must know that the best men of that era busied themselves not only with conjectures as to what were to be its results, but also with ways and means by which they might be able to provide against these very insurrections. Mr. Jefferson, we should remember, up to his dying hour, never ceased to express his apprehensions, and to suggest his plans for exemption. The possible contingency of a great San Domingo rebellion, he declared was to him continually "like a fire bell in the night." He "trembled" he said, "to think of it." And it was because that he so well knew the peculiar conditions which invested the negro race. both naturally and artificially in this country, that he dwelt so earnestly on his plan for a Central American colonization of the race.-Something of this sort has got to be done. For look at it: We have now nearly four millions of these serfs among us. They are increasing in a ratio wholly unknown to the white race.-

the scale from the jet black to the offspring of quadroons. Does anybody flatter himself that the usually sullen and sulky mulatto has no more ambition, no more energy of mind than the African proper? Do not the facts show that they have? The fact that the cross of two antagonistic bloods makes them short lived, as a class, has demonstrated to physiologists that they are the worst class of inhabitants a country can have. Nearly all the poisoning cases that have created so much alarm in the South, have occurred at the hands of mulattoes. Mrs. Stowe did well to make the desperate Cassey, in "Uncle Tom," a mulatto. She was not an exaggerated type. And it is notorious that not only Legree, but that thousands of other men in the South, readily pay a premium for such high strung creatures as Cassey, for they minister, more voluptuously and enticingly to their carnal and mental lusts than the dronish black girl. Thomas Jefferson's private letters showed that he was experimentally acquainted with this dangerous fusion, and it lends force to his observations, however much it may detract from

But we cannot pursue this subject further today. It is one that needs more statistics and more time for proper elaboration than we can bring to it now. We are greatly in hopes, as indeed we have been for some time back, that it will ere long elicit attention from our more experienced and sagacious public men. And although it has more than its usual force and interest just at this time, yet it is none the less an every day and permanent subject, calling for our constant attention.

No sooner has Horace Greeley, after his arival from California, had a good cup of coffee, and a night's sound sleep, than off he hies him to his familiar old sanctum, throws his old white hat under the table, tucks the long tails of his notable old white coat within the arms of the chair wherein he plants himself, and, with pen in hand, goes to work, -at what? Why-pitching into Douglas' Harper's Essay. Poor Dougas! that Harper's Essay was the most unfortunate adventure of his life. It has brought upon him, with increased vigor and effect, the intense lightnings and thunder of an indignant administration, and, not only this, but he has at length incensed the whole Republican party into open and bitter warfare against him. After being fairly overwhelmed (as we candidly confess) by Judge Black, then after having all the non-sociabilities and absurdities and illegalities of his labored manifesto set forth in strong light by numberless editors and speech-makers of the Opposition, he has at last to undergo the disagreeable performance of a flaying alive, at the Greeley addresses him by the way of a letter, of three and a half columns, in his own paper, to which he subscribes his name. From the records he argues that Congress has a right to legisate upon the subject of slavery in the territories. and "to exclude it therefrom." This, the National Intelligencer, some time ago, very fully and elaboately proved, but Horace goes over the ground anew,-stating the history of the matter breifly, clearly, and with precision, and; adding to the palpable deductions, some of his own pointed and cutting comments:

In what predicament do we now find Douglas? He is at war, in his political tenets, with almost the entire South. He is equally at war with the vast Republican organization of the North, and with a large (we believe we are safe n saying the larger) portion of the Democratic party of the North; -certainly with that portion which is distinctively known as the Administration party. To our mind the question of slavery in the territories is reduced to this: either the doctrine of the Republican party is the true one, or that of the Administration Democracy is. Douglas' doctrine cannot be corect,-this we are perfectly well convinced of Then there exists but a single issue between the two parties; it is a broad one, and admits of no ntervening third position, such as Douglas has assumed. On this single issue we need not tell our readers that we have just as decided an opinion as we have, that Douglas is altogether wrong. It is against the Administration doctrine Ithat the Republican party must fight .--True, we may be compelled to have a tug with Douglas, the politician, but we do not harbor the least fear of ever meeting in the United States Congress, anything like a serious contest with his principles. We have no terror of them: it is the doctrines of James Buchanan's Administration which we must meet and defeat, and when that is done Republicanism shall have accomplished its chief victory.

Joseph Lacy was, a short time since, convicted of the firing of the town of Oshkosh, and sentenced to fourteen years imprisonment, seven days of each month solitary confinement. Last Spring he opened a house of ill-fame in Oshkosh, Wis., which soon became so notorious that the citizens of that place requested him several times to leave. He invariably refused, and finally carried his evil doings to such a pitch that they burned his house and drove him out of the place. He left, swearing revenge, and on the night of the 10th of May the town was fired and $500,000 worth of property destroyed. The trial lasted several days, the defence attempting to produce an alibi, but signally failing. The proof was conclusive, and he was convicted and sentenced.

Ar the Maine State Fair, a boy of fifteen years, from the town of Woodstock, had a pair of three years old steers which obeyed him as an obedient boy will his parents. By a motion of his hand they would go forward, halt and reurn, and perform other things much to the surprise of some older farmers who are in the habit of putting the brad through the hide. At the New York State Fair, there was a perfect Rarey of an ox tamer, who practices breaking steers for farmers, who never treats them inhumanly, but he soon has them under perfect control, and as bidable as well trained children.

A cannon ball fired from one of the Chinese Not only this, but, as we said, they are imbiforts in the affair of the Peiho, took a leg from hing the energies and taking on the color of the off six English marines, who were ranged in superior race. They now range all the way up line on the deck of one of the British vessels.

The President's Libel Suit-Parney's Testlmony. From the Philadelphia Press, October 17. The President of the United States have seemed it important enough to correct a telegraphic rumor from this city, to the effect that he contemplated a suit against the editor of this ournal, because of our article upon the murder Senator Broderick, we desire to state, upon the best authority, that during his late visit to Lancaster, the President was free and frequen n the declaration of his determination that on is return to Washington, he would consult Press for a libel in consequence of that article. We have now in our possession letters from preminent democrats in Lancaster, written while he President was sojourning there, stating the fact in question in the most emphatic manner. Unfortunately for Mr. Buchanan, since he has been elected to the Presidency he has broken his solemn word so often, that little or no reliince can be reposed upon his assertions or his promises. The last verdict of his own immeliate neighbors of this city in which he has ived for more than forty years, and of the township in which he has latterly resided, is well as of the county of Lancaster itself, shows what estimate those who know him best place upon anything which he may profess to do in public matters. When any man, no matter what his past life may have been, consents to an act of gross deliberate treachery, and in the face of day betrays the most sacred pledges. violates the most solemn personal covenant, and persecutes his most disinterested friends, nothng that he may say or do will rescue him from condemnation. During Mr. Buchnnan's late visit to Lancaster he not only spoke of the comments of this journal upon the murder of Broderick to one, but to a number of persons nd yet we find in a telegraphic despatch from Washington to a New York paper, that he is reported as having said that he never heard of the article in question. This would occasion surprise among those who listened to his querulous complaints during his visit to Lancaster, if they had not become familiar to his habit of breaking faith with the men with whom he had been associated during all the active years of his public life. If Mr. Buchanan desires more direct evidence of the fact that he did threaten

From the New York Post of yesterday. The stories connecting the name of "old Brown of Ossawatamie," as he is called, with the leadership of this fanatical enterprise, are, we are induced to think, well founded; and, in that event, the whole affair may be regarded as a late fruit of the violence which the slaveholders introduced into Kansas. Brown was one of the early settlers in that new territory; he was a conspicuous object of persecution all through the troubles; his property was destroyed; he and his family were cruelly treated on several occasions; three or four of his sons were killed by southern desperadoes; and these many exasperations drove him to inadness. He has not been regarded since, we are told, as a perfectly sane man. He has been known to you vengeance against the whole class of slaveholders for the outrages perpetrated by their repre sentatives in Kansas, and this insurrection, he is at the head of it, is the manner in which he gluts his resentments. Frenzied by the remembrance of his wrongs, his whole nature turned into gall by the bitter hatreds stirred up in Kansas, and, reckless of consequences, he has plunged into the work of blood.

The movement to the great markets this sea son, of the important staples of cotton and wheat, are unusually active. That of cotton is in excess of any season since the fall of 1855, and of wheat in excess of any preceding year so early after the harvest, since 1856. The week before last sent from the Southern market 26,000 bales, and the last week will probably exceed 80,000, as we have already reported 15,000 bales from New Orleans alone. Thus for the fortnight we have equal to $3,000,000 in foreign exchange against a single staple of the planting States, as early as the middle of Octoin all cases. See advertisement in another column. ber. From Chicago, in one day, Thursday 193,000 bushels of wheat were shipped to the To the Be-Drugged and Poisoned Citizens East, and 89,000 bushels received the same day from the interior of the State of Illinois 41016

THE Buffalo Express has an article on the Latter Day Saints, in which it says that a Mormon is a living paradox. He says grace before a cotillion, swears in his sermons, selects his texts differently from the Bible, the books not been tampered with. Such an article is of Mormon, an almanac, or the President's Message, and is perpetually quarreling, for the sake of peace. His religion is a joke, and he makes tha best story-teller the chief of the quorum .-He assumes dignities, but has not the slightest respect for them; and the effect of his piety is to put his on a level with the greatest reprobate of the time. In short, he is the Latter Day Saint; or in other words, the last one you would think of calling a saint.

A N. Y. correspondent of the Charleston Courier gives a friendly notice of Mrs. Stagg, street, T. B. JOHNSTON, 176 Market st., and others. the amiable wife of a ruined man about town, who, in the old days, was a character about the Astor House, in New York. By hard drinking he brought himself first to poverty, then to a lunatic asylum, where he is at present. His wife is struggling alone in the world to support herself by singing-having recently made her debut at a concert at Niblo's. She is pitied, and 'June," her husband, is lamented as a splendid

A sporting print says of Mr. Kelley and his condition after his recent contest: "Worse punished men have fought for hours. But after all one hundred and fifty-four-and-a-half pounds of scientific bone and muscle, with hostile intentions, seen dimly through one eye, may have a one sided and monstrous appearance, of which we, as amateur glove men, can form no possible conception, and so its well to speak charitably. A New York letter says of the Oviedo mariage-"It's all bosh about Miss B.'s 'selling' herself. She was engaged to the Don before her papa knew of their acquaintance."
